Light Weight Templates All the blogger templates are provided here lightweight which helps in loading speed. In free blogger templates we use very light compression for encrypted scripts this helps to load blogger templates faster. And in premium blogger templates there is no compression of encrypted scripts that's why speed is much a little bit higher than free blogger templates. This is not personal advice that you should always use premium blogger templates by using a free blogger template you can also rank on search engines and work on your website without any problem and issue. All the featured posts and other Mega Wrapper Posts are very light to load faster on your browser. All the blogger templates are tested and well perform over all type of condition when there is no image for different types of image extensions used in the post. The blogger template will not be crashed it will handle the image and display it on your website. Also, there's the lazy load effect has been added to images when user scroll is automatic loss within the microseconds which gives a smooth scroll effect in the website and fast loading and to understand search engine that website is well optimized. We always focus on high quality features for our blogger templates with fast loading which will help other users and customer to interact with a better interface with their audience. AMP stands for Accelerated Mobile Pages which load website faster on a mobile device but currently, this feature is not available in blogger templates. The type of AMP blogger templates in Market are fake. But we are providing fully responsive blogger templates with valid tools like Schema, Also we optimize our blogger templates in that way it will give speed like a AMP. There are various types of Speed blogger templates are available in our website you can use them on your blog for fast loading. Google and other search engines prefer high-speed websites more rather than other much more features loaded which make the blogger template heavy, Best Sold Blogger Templates Piki Blogger Templates.
